

Neways Electronics is growing at the German site in Neunkirchen

Son, 26.11.2018: The EMS Lifecycle partner Neways Electronics International has completed the expansion of its German site in Neunkirchen. After about 8 months of planning and construction, the new production and office space was taken into service in early October. Due to the additional 1,000 m² the location grows to a total of 5,500 m². In addition to expanding its location, Neways Electronics will also invest in state-of-the-art production technologies to tailor its machinery to customers' needs.

"The expansion of the production area became necessary, because the volume of orders has grown steadily in the recent years. The order situation looks very good for the future as well. By expanding our production capacity, we will be able to meet the growth in the electronics industry", explains Michael Berger, Managing Director of the Neways Neunkirchen GmbH. At the same time, the production layout is optimized in order to produce even more efficiently.

The Neways site in Neunkirchen currently employs around 220 people and manufactures electronic assemblies for the automotive industry and other industry segments.
